

Privacy Policy.

Your privacy is important to the Renwick Medical Centre and is protected in the same way as all medical information. Your details will not be forwarded or known to others other than with your permission as part of the normal provision of healthcare and necessary co-operation between health care providers.

Your confidential medical notes are not stored or contained on a web-server or the internet, but are stored securely in the Practice.

Please note that information exchanged over the internet may not be secure, and it is important you recognise this and take all due precautions. This is particularly so in the work/office situation, where others or the company may view your email.
